
Statistics

Posledná aktualizácia: 19.01.2022

The statistical topics provide the following types of data and information:

- News - selection of the latest information reports and news from the particular statistical field
- Indicators - statistical data in tables and graphs. Current data and development of the long-term indicators in time series
- Publications - selection of the latest publications from the particular statistical field
- Metadata - information on data collection and processing, methodological notes, indicator definitions, related publications, revisions, quality reports etc.
- About topic - other useful information and references to the topic